Agri Mktg Meet in Udaipur

Udaipur: The 29th annual conference of agriculture marketing will be held in Maharana Pratap College of Agriculture at Udaipur, Rajasthan from October 28 to 30. The meet will discuss several issues pertaining to agriculture marketing in the country. According to Indian Society of Agricultural Marketing vice-president Yalamanchili Sivaji, the technical sessions will discuss state intervention in the marketing of pulses, oil seeds, horticulture, fiber and plantation crops. The topic becomes significant given the fluctuating prices of pulses and an abnormal jump in market prices of some pulses in the country in the recent weeks. The other topics include 'Marketing of Fish and Fish Products', 'Status of Reforms' and 'New Initiatives in Improvement of Agricultural Marketing in Rajasthan - Emerging Issues'.

The Study students learn First Aid

Udaipur: It is always a great idea for anyone to do a first aid course so that you know what to do to help others. It is also incredibly important that children (and adults) are equipped with the skills to keep themselves and each other safe. These are skills you cannot learn from books, so therefore The Junior Study students from class V had a practical hands-on training with Barbara from the USA. The students learned many useful skills like what there should be in a first aid kit, how to wrap bandages, how to use a splint, how to clean wounds, what a rescue sheet is, and also how to stay safe.

'Kulhad me Chai': Campaign started by Piramal Foundation

Udaipur: Drinking hot tea in plastic cups can cause diseases as deadly as cancer and to help curb this problem, Piramal Foundation and Vyapar Mandal, Jaisamand have together initiated to provide tea in Kulhad or earthen cups. In the meeting held with Vyapar Mandal in Jaisamand, Piramal Fellow group suggested that using Kulhad instead of plastic cups can not only help save environment but also restrict causes of cancer related diseases in humans. Although a cost of single Kulhad is 80 paise as against 15 paise for a plastic cup but the damage caused by plastic is much more than the amount. After the initiation by the Piramal Foundation. 8 vendors of Jaisamand gave order to manufacture 5000 kulhads to Kumhar Shankarlal Prajapat and Rooplal Prajapat who live at Toda. Piramal Foundation's Mayank Tandon, Akash, Pramit, Pragya, Sharda, Manish, Kanishk and Christopher along with Vyapar Mandal's president Gebilal Jain and Veerpura Upsarpanch Shantilal were present.

When dreams come true...

Udaipur: Hindustan Zinc rural women empowerment project "Sakhi" was all glittering with fashion garments on a night when the designs created by them were showcased on the ramp by Delhi and Mumbai professional models and watched by none other than the home minister, women and child development minister and a large gathering of top designers of the country and fashion students besides many dignitaries...

After three months of meticulous planning, 45 days of hard work and immense brainstorming sessions on designs. look and fashion trends, the city of Jaipur finally hosted the first ever fashion show of garments made directly by rural and tribal women of Hindustan Zinc's project "Sakhi", to a jam-packed 500 strong audi-

Home Minister Gulab Chand Kataria, Women and Child Development Minister Anita Bhadel, MLA, Sawai Madhopur and the brand ambassador for 'Beti Bachao' campaign Diya Kumari and Women director Empowerment Richa Khoda had specially come to the see the collection made by the Renowned fashion designer Jattinn Kochhar, Raideep Ranawat, Gaurav Gupta and Anand Bhushan who attended the show were mesmerized to see the garments made by the "Sakhi" rural women. Miss India 2014, Koyal Rana enthralled the audiences as the show stopper for the evening.

Fashion designer Jattinn Kochhar also had an interactive session with these women who are all from Kayad and Gagwana villages of Ajmer district

Hindustan Zinc has been engaged in empowerment of rural and tribal women of Rajasthan since 2006 through formation of self-help-groups. Today, these SHGs are popularly known as "Sakhi", and the women associated with these

SHGs as popularly called "Sakhees". "Sakhi" has developed product based clusters to strengthen the social and economic conditions of rural and tribal women. Clusters of fashion garments, school uniforms, home furnishing, candle making, spices, floor mats, pickle and papad, paper craft etc. have already been developed and successfully bringing sustainable economic empowerment among hundreds of these rural and tribal women Hindustan Zinc also organized an exhibition showcasing the products made by different clusters. People were cued to buy these products but they were not for sale.

Under the Project "Sakhi", 50 rural women of villages of Gagwana and Kayad in the district of Ajmer had been working for almost two months to make designer garments. An exclusive training in this regard was provided to these rural women, most of whom are educated, as part of the development of "Sakhi" product cluster on fashion garments.

The show was directed and choreographed by leading Asian choreographer Rashmi Virmani.

Pavan Kaushik, who is the Head of Corporate Communication and also Head of Project "Sakhi" informed that the focus is to develop a hub of karigars that can help fashion designers, fashion students and other fashion experts from across the country. "With this cluster, Hindustan Zinc is aiming to create a sustainable employment for these women. This will also encourage thousands of rural women to takeup this creative art", Pavan said.

Akhilesh Joshi, President,

Zinc Business, Vedanta group informed "Sakhi" is making school uniforms and schools can approach these rural women for making their school uniforms for a better price. Currently the uniform cluster is busy in making school uniforms for the Anganwadi children. Recently Hindustan Zinc has adopted 3055 Anganwadis and the mats and school uniforms in these Anganwadis are being made by "Sakhi" rural women. Vedanta has also signed an MoU for making 4000 Nand Ghars across the country to bring child care and women empowerment under a single umbrella.'

The trainers, Zakir Khan and Rajni Kaur Khan and his team of 6 people, were before being engaged for such training for the rural women were also given a 6 days orientation program by Hindustan Zinc to enable them to bring desired results. To strengthen designing and execution. Hindustan Zinc engaged a Stylist from Delhi, Jovieet, who spent a number of days bringing finishing and styling to the garments. Asha Baxi the former dean of National Institute of Fashion Technology (NIFT) and perhaps the first fashion faculty of India visited these women along with the students and faculty of Fashion Design to give them tips and design sentiments.

Hindustan Zinc also decided to show-case a sequence of 12 uniforms with different combinations and textures. But it was also decided to use only Anganwadi children to present the uniform collection. 12 children were selected from Aimer to wear the collection. It was amazing to see the children, who were only going to Anganwadis, to walk on the ramp in presence of whistles and shouts of over 500 people cheering them. The Home Minister and Women & Child Development Minister too were up clapping and cheering them.

The group of 50 women worked passionately round the clock to have finally made 62 garments including sarees, salwar kurtas, kurtees, kaftans and school uniforms in a Furkana Bano and Kukum

"I would like to congratulate and thank Hindustan Zinc for empowering the rural women of Rajasthan. Through the "Sakhi" programme Hindustan Zinc has taken an amazing initiative to make women financially independent by assuring them market. The government too has been working towards the upliftment of rural women but the results have been comparatively slow. However, this innovative concept has captured the essence of what the government has envisioned to do since a long time and has achieved results at a much rapid pace by developing product based cluster approach. I would further congratulate the entire "Sakhi" team for this innovative approach.

- Gulab Chand Kataria, home

"I am grateful to Hindustan Zinc for undertaking such a wonderful initiative. This concept and the entire programme is a great confidence booster for the women of our villages. There are many Self Help Groups and NGO's that are working towards the empowerment of women, but a concept like "Sakhi" is really unique in its idea and execution recognises the women's talents and more importantly gives them a market to showcase their creativity and their products.

> - Anita Bhadel, women and child development Minister

" Hindustan Zinc is doing some great work with the Self Help Groups in the five districts of the state. I would be delighted and strongly recommend if this programme also comes to Sawai Madhopur as there are many women in the district and its villages that can be benefitted through "Sakhi" associa-

Diya Kumari, MLA, Sawai Madhopur

"I have walked the ramp for so many designers but have not creations are at par with designs made by renowned designers. Actually my today walk is dedicated to all the Sakhees.

Koyal Rana, Miss India 2014

Kavar from the village of Kayad had no experience of such work. The rural conditions had never exposed us to such forms of art. Similarly record time of about 45 days. Tabassum Bano and Ryaj Bano from the village of Gagwana always wanted to do something like this but never got the chance for such training as it was expensive. The women were of the unanimous opinion, "Ye sab humari umme-

Civil court terms imprisonment to ex-UIT chairman & secretary

Udaipur: In an 8 year old case, a civil court here on Thursday termed two months imprisonment for former officials of the UIT including chairman and secretary after holding them guilty on contempt of court charges . Veteran BJP leader and ex-MLA Shivkishore Sanadhya who is over 80 years old was the then UIT chairman who has been held guilty of passing an demolishing order despite a status-quo order on a disputed property.

The case dates back to 2007 where a civil suit was filed by one Davalal Choudhary who owned a plot at Savina Kheda. The UIT had sent notices to demolish the boundary wall and room at the disputed property. The civil court granted a status quo order in the case, however, the UIT went for an appeal that was dismissed by the appellate court. Despite the stay order remaining effective, the UIT demolished the structure.

The complainant lodged a contempt case against the then officials including collector Shikhar Agrawal, UIT chairman Sanadhya, ADM city Rajeev Jain, UIT secretary Ujjwal Rathore and tehsildar Mukesh Jani and Mukesh Barhat, assistant commissioner of the Devasthan department. On Thursday after hearing the arguments the South Civil court pronounced 2 months imprisonment against the three officials. Sanadhya had served as Udaipur legislator for two consecutive terms from 1990 to 1998.
