likely to get around 19 percent raise on the current minimum salary

7th CPC be revised by Rs 20,000

New Delhi : There is good news for central government employees eagerly awaiting for the implementation of the Seventh Pay Commission as they are likely to get around 19 percent raise on the current minimum salary being drawn.

According to reports, the Empowered Committee of Secretaries is planning to propose a minimum pay of Rs 20,000 instead of Rs18,000 as proposed earlier.

The 7th pay panel report, which was released in November had raised the minimum pay to Rs 18,000 per month from currently drawn Rs 7,000, while the maximum pay was recommended Rs 2.5 lakh per month from Rs 90,000.

Government employees demanded a minimum salary of Rs 26,000 as against Rs 18,000 recommended in November last year. The 7th CPC award is likely to come with salary increment which was anyway due in the month of July.

CoS also wants to address various concerns raised by the Joint Consultative Machinery (JCM) before taking a final call on the recommendations of the commission. Defence Ministry also sought a fresh analysis of the concerns raised by the Army, Navy and the Air force- over the recommendations of the seventh pay commission. In a recent interview, Defence minister Manohar Parrikar assured that concerns raised by the armed forces would be taken up by the commission.

The financial burden of the 7th CPC recommendations on the exchequer is expected to be around Rs 1.02 lakh crore in meeting the revised pay structure. The central government has already made provision of Rs 70,000 crore in the Budget 2016-17 to meet the payout of the pay commission award.

Since the minimum pay has been revised upwards, the 7th pay panel has recommended that HRA be paid at the rate of 24 percent, 16 percent and 8 percent of the new Basic Pay for Class X, Y and Z cities respectively.

The Commission also recommended that the rate of HRA will be revised to 27 percent, 18 percent and 9 percent respectively when DA crosses 50 percent, and further revised to 30 percent, 20 percent and 10 percent when DA crosses 100 percent. However, no arrears will be paid on the HRA, and will be effective only when the pay panel award is notified.

Dashamata Poojan by Women in Udaipur

Udaipur : On this holy day of Krishna Paksh of Chaitra month, women across the entire city celebrated Dashamata Vrat and Poojan with wishes for the prosperity of their family members. After getting up early in the morning, Ladies went to a temple nearby them to worship goddess Dasha Maa and tree of Sacred Fig commonly known as 'Peepal'.

In and around Udaipur, including villages of Bhallo ka Guda Gram Panchayat located 20 Km from Udaipur. From very early in the morning women were seen going to the temples, worshipping Goddess Dasha Mata and adoring Peepal Trees. Married women worshipped Dasha Mata and Peepal tree, which is believed to bring prosperity to the family of the devotee. Peepal tree is worshipped due to belief that Goddess Dasha Mata resides in the tree itself.

Using this auspicious occasion, with inspiration from District collector of Udaipur Rohit Gupta and CEO Zilla Parishad. Avichal Chaturvedi, under Swach Bharat Mission, Wells for India (UK) and Hanmuam Van Vikas Samiti organized plantation of sacred Peepal tree on the places where people openly defecate.

Women Self Help Group (SHG) members of these villages are planting Peepal tree on the selected 40 places, where people goes for open defecation, across 4 villages of this Gram Panchayat since Sheetala Asthmi i.e. 28th March 2016.

According to local women this will stop people not to openly defecate in already planted Peepal trees and also inspire them to construct toilet at their home. During plantation women group members also took oath not to go for open defecation and construct the toilet within a few months in all houses of Gram Panchayat.

5 early signs of Diabetes

Increase in the urge to urinate

An average human urinates 4 to 7 times in a day, Diabetes causes you to urinate much often than the average, diabetes makes your body less efficient at breaking foods down into sugar, causing your body to have more sugar in the blood stream. Your body gets rid of the excess sugar in the body in the form of urine. If you are waking up in the night to visit the loo multiple times then this is one of the early signs of diabetes.

Excessive thirst even while sleeping

An increase in the blood sugar levels increases the urge to urinate more often. Which causes you to lose a lot of your body fluids and make you feel dehydrated. Drinking more water than usual and more often is also one of the early signs of diabetes.

Feeling Hungry even after meals

The body of the diabetic cannot use insulin properly to get the glucose into the cells of the body, hence your pancreas start to over produce insulin which increases the insulin levels in the blood. This increase in insulin levels in your blood stream send signal to your brain that you are hungry even after you have just had a heavy meal. Feeling hungry even after meals is one of the prominent early signs of diabetes.

Blurred vision

Blurred vision is a common sign of diabetes. when there is a spike in the blood glucose levels in the body, the excess glucose pulls out the fluids from tissues and cells. When this happens the lens of the eye which is a tissue also swells which alters its ability and causes blurry vision.

Numbness in feet and hands

A feeling of numbness in feet and hands is a common early sign of diabetes. The excess sugar in the blood starts to damage the nerve endings which causes numbness in feet and hands.
