

TRANSFORM YOUR HOUSEWIFE TAG INTO SUCCESSFUL BLOGGER

She is my neighbor, she is my relative, she lives in my house, she is younger than me, and she also a senior to me. SHE is everywhere, may be your relative too, or neighbor. According to her, daily house chores and thousands of other responsibilities has left her with nothing at all but working 24*7 as a servant. She blames society, she blames god, she blames in laws, she blames husband for ruining her career. She is also a degree holder and had plans to work in some reputed firm even after marriage. Everything was ok until she became mother. Her life suddenly started rotating in other direction, 'kid'. She gradually became aggressive, would shout on silly mistakes made by others. She stopped comporting herself. For who I should get ready, she thought. The moment she bid adieu to her career, she stopped many other things, like makeup, laughing, eating out, and etc. Gradually, she became homesick. Society, laws house, and husband were found guilty. She blamed all these for her failure in life. Now meet these women/bloggers;

Make Right Choice And Live Free

"By the Way"

There is a beast inside every person. It's a fact. We are living in a world which is full of selfishness, greed and anger. People with fake attitude and false ego can be found everywhere. You can't be cool and calm with everyone and in every situation. Sometimes a good person also breaks the ice and reacts in a way which is unexpected.

Rohit was a very quiet and shy person. His friends provoked him to participate in a bike race and later he was asked to perform a stunt. His best friend Ria was there to support him. Suddenly some boys started commenting on Ria and her dressing sense. Rohit tried to avoid in the beginning but when a boy started touching Ria with wrong intentions, Rohit took a rod and thrashed the boy. Within a minute that boy lost the battle and due to skull fracture he died in a trauma centre. It was not Rohit's fault. Ria was his girl friend and it was his duty to save her. His animal came out at that particular moment and changed his life completely. No matter how good we are but sometimes we behave differently in a particular situation. That momentary reaction makes us realise about the actual reflection of our inner nature. It's really not good to show your animal nature to your loved ones. We all are born with negative and positive traits. It depends on us to choose the path and move in the right direction. God has given us equal powers and we can easily judge the situation without losing our temper. Humanity can beat animality and overrules it all the time. Tough situation may provoke us to become a monster but it's preferably good to be human in that moment. Rohit must have called the police or he should have taken the help of his friends instead of taking a human life. I know it's difficult to maintain peace but at the end you will be guilt free and taking a wise decision at the perfect moment can save your precious time.

"Demonetization: Impacts and Challenges"

Udaipur: GITS organised a successful national seminar on 20th January 2017 on the historic Demonetization move, which had reputed experts from the field of finance and economics expresses their views and discuss the pros and cons on the subject of the seminar, "Demonetization: Impacts and Challenges". The Director, Prof Dr. KN Sheth graciously welcomed the key note speaker, Mr. Jagat Shah Founder & CEO, Global Network, Cluster Pulse, Mentorroad, and the expert speakers, CA Durgesh Pandey (M.Com, FCA, DISA (ICAI), CFE (USA), CA Dr. Mahaveer Chaplot (Ph.D, FCA).

During the seminar, all the members expressed their concerns and consequences of demonetization as well as deliberated on the short and long term impacts on the economic growth of India. Mr. Jagat Shah explained how the various policies of the government since their coming to office in 2014 had slowly been making a road map to make India a self-sufficient economic power. The history of demonetization throughout the world was elaborated by CA Durgesh Pandey and he explained the economics and financial implications and how the governments around the world have used it to curtail corruption and curb black money. Although the demonetization policy is being seen as a financial reform in the country but this decision is fraught with its own merits and demerits. CA Dr. Mahaveer Chaplot, stated that the long-run gains of demonetization depend on implementation - not intentions, not aspirations, but whether the government can deliver on its promises. Transparency in financial transaction and spread of cashless transaction culture, growth of the formal economy, registration of new income tax payers, linking or accounting physical asset investment to PAN, cleansing of the real estate sector, conscience about avoiding black income transactions, etc., are supposed to be the major long term gain. The convener, Mr. Arvind Singh Pemawat, said that the seminar was received well by gauging the large attendance of faculty members and students who also posed interesting queries to the esteemed speakers. Several students raised various questions to the panel members to have more in depth knowledge of functioning of economy and menace of fake currency in the growth of progress of Nation, etc.

A Concert With Great Cause

Jeevan Ke Rang Zinc Ke Sang

Udaipur: Hindustan Zinc Ltd. Celebrated its 51st anniversary in a very innovative way at Yashad Bhavan, Udaipur by organizing "Jeevan ke rang zinc ke sang" on 10th January, 2017 making the event a memorable venture. 'Divyang' (Differently able) students of Government Pragya Cakshu Sr. Secondary School, Badhir Vidyalaya and Prayas School of Udaipur and Badhir Bal Kalyan Vikas Samiti, Bhilwara presented melodious music, enthralling dances, hilarious mimes and captivating skit for the Hindustan Zinc family.

Government Pragya Cakshu Sr. Secondary School, started this special concert with devotional song and Umang Geet (song narrating spirit of triumph). Umang geet was written and composed by Shri Veerendra Arya, Retired teacher of the School. Singers Anurag Paswan and Krihnpal Singh were accompanied by Ms. Jammela Bano and Shri Naveen Rao. Similarly the visually impaired students of Badhir Bal Kalyan Vikas Samiti, Bhilwara rendered patriotic song "Rashtra ki Jay Chetna ka gaan Vande Mataram" putting melody and energy. This song was composed by their teacher Sh. Balbeer Singh. Hearing impaired students of the same institution received tremendous appreciation from audience. They performed medley of popular Film and folk songs. This was choreographed by young talent Shri Rohit Jain.

I was given opportunity to design and direct the show and was overwhelmed with the support the educational institutes provided and mesmerizing performance by these very special children.

I too learnt so many things from these angels. Mentally Challenged children of Prayas School presented a small skit "Aisee kheer Pakayenge Sare milkar khayenge".

This was the item where the sensible audience joined children by clapping and singing. Children on stage were so encouraged that they sang complete song up till "Choti Choti Khushiyan Kahan pe milengi, Hamare saath gao 'Yahin pe milengi'".

Instructions about washing hands and turning off running tap were given by these mentally challenged children made everyone happy. Two mimes namely "Plantation Week V/S Plantation Weak" and "Dust free Dustbin" made everyone laugh profusely with their facial blowups and actions while giving latent message.

Besides these students of Badhir Vidyalaya also showcased their talent by making different uses of the bamboos right from boat to boxing providing healthy entertainment. Children of Prayas presented popular song "Taare Zameer par" and 'Jay ho' with full enthusiasm and received standing ovation. Choreographer Sonu Regar also danced with these mentally challenged children for motivation. The atmosphere of auditorium was very cohesive. I could observe tears in the eyes of sensible audience. This high level of involvement made this special event most successful.

This Mega event made a history as the first time Hindustan Zinc Ltd not only organized a cultural event of the beneficiary schools but also gave these special artistes a VIP treatment. After the cultural show Children were given served food by the Officers of HZL and given valuable gifts.

One could see expressions of innocent happiness on the faces of children. The initiative taken by Hindustan Zinc is worth praising. This will go a long way in benefiting the children in special need and maintaining the corporate image of Hindustan Zinc.

Dignitaries of Mewar

Lakshyaraj Singh Mewar

Lakshyaraj Singh Mewar is a scion of the 1500 year-old House of Mewar in Udaipur. Born on the 28th of January, 1985, he is the only son of Shriji Arvind Singh Mewar and Smt. Vijayraj Kumari Mewar of Udaipur.

As a child, Lakshyaraj was raised to respect and honor his esteemed lineage, which is rich in history and culture. His childhood was spent in hearing stories about his valiant ancestors and their remarkable traditions. He was greatly inspired by his paternal grandfather, his late Highness Maharana Bhagwat Singh Mewar, whose diligent service to society and sense of charity, exemplified the importance of serving the community while upholding social and moral responsibilities.

Lakshyaraj completed his schooling from Mayo College, Ajmer, Rajasthan. While at Mayo, he served as a School Monitor and continued the family tradition of excelling in Cricket; he was presented with the College 'Colours' for the sport. Mayo College is a very prestigious residential school, having often been referred to as the Eton of India. It was initially established to educate young men hailing from the royal and noble families of the country. The House of Mewar's contribution towards the establishment and development of Mayo College is legendary.

For his further studies, Lakshyaraj attended the Blue Mountains International Hotel Management School in Australia, where he obtained his Bachelor of Commerce degree. He gained invaluable hands on experience by serving at all levels of the hotel management business, including as a waiter and a barista thereby, enhancing his skills in the process and evolving as a well-rounded hospitality professional.

Mr Lakshyaraj Singh Mewar further enriched his knowledge of the Hospitality Industry and kept up with the new trends in the Hospitality Trade, by pursuing several courses from the Nanyang University Singapore. Later, in 2009-2010, He attended a workshop on visitor care and security in the Victoria and Albert Museum, London. The learnings from this workshop empowered him to improve the security and safety of visitors to The City Palace, Udaipur, and at all the hotel properties of the HRH Group of Hotels across Rajasthan.

Believing in working his way to the top, Lakshyaraj started his career from scratch by working as a waiter at the Four Seasons Hotel in Australia, followed by a stint at several cafes in Australia. On his return to Udaipur, he joined the family business and undertook the refurbishment of the iconic Jagmandir Island Palace as his maiden venture, Through 2006-07, under his management, Jagmandir Island Palace reinforced its position, as one of the world's most exclusive Regal Wedding destinations. Thereafter Lakshyaraj turned his attention to developing Palkikhana as an, European-style café at the picturesque Manek Chowk of the City Palace, Udaipur. With experienced chefs by his side, Lakshyaraj worked painstakingly to improve the F&B (food and beverages) quality and service standards across the HRH Group of Hotels. Lakshyaraj is an ardent sports enthusiast and is especially passionate about Cricket.

His dedication and interest in Cricket led to his appointment as the President of Udaipur District Cricket Association. Despite his promising playing career ending short due to responsibilities, Lakshyaraj more than makes up for it with his involvement in the promotion of the sport. He is the special invitee of the Rajasthan Cricket Association for any state level event as well as for the World Class Stadium Committee (Udaipur and Jaipur). His consistent efforts and love for the game is well respected, as he is an Advisor to the President of the Rajasthan Cricket Association. Lakshyaraj's unwavering commitment to social causes and his dedication to the public has created awareness on several issues related to the rural and urban populace in the region. He has conducted various campaigns to create awareness in the field of education, health, environment and other social causes, in order to improve the standard of living and quality of life of the local people. Lakshyaraj also takes pleasure in working for and encouraging the youth, especially in creative fields. He provides opportunities for them to exhibit their talent and participate in many remarkable events. To better interact with his friends, public and followers, Lakshyaraj is active on social networks like Facebook and Twitter, and has thus developed over 1,30,000+ followers on his social networking services. Those wishing to connect with Lakshyaraj can follow him on Facebook through the following link-<http://www.facebook.com/mewarlakshyaraj>

In his attempt to draw attention to various developmental and social projects, Lakshyaraj is frequently profiled by the Global, National and Local media, including The Times of India, The Economic Times, BBC, NDTV and usage media.

Lakshyaraj is constantly reinventing himself, in order to strive for higher goals. He takes on any new opportunity with an open mind and has proved to be successful to date with his "can do" attitude. Reflections of his successes to date, include his many professional executive appointments in the HRH Group Hotels, his appointment as President of Udaipur District Cricket Association, as well as, the increasing collection of prestigious awards for his efforts, in the world of business or in his philanthropy. He is very humbled by his ever increasing fan following, who constantly encourage him to reach greater heights, with their continuous support in the causes that he endorses and in the goodwill he generates. When it comes to achievements, the sky is the limit for Lakshyaraj, as each day presents itself with new opportunities and challenges. A selfless and compassionate man, Mr Lakshyaraj Singh Mewar's love and care for his people is well known. Passionate about various forms of art, he spends his leisure hours painting, listening to sufi music, flying RC planes, aero modelling and playing the tabla. Additionally, he enjoys spending time in honing his skills in photography and gardening.

The House of Mewar is one of India's most respected dynasties with a record of service that stretches across 1500 years. Besides being the oldest dynasty in the world, the history of the House of Mewar is embellished with the contributions of iconic personalities like Rana Kumbha, Rana Sangha and Rana Pratap to Indian civilization and culture. Lakshyaraj Singh Mewar is the direct descendant of such historic luminaries and is conscious of the responsibilities he has to shoulder and the values he has to uphold: of loyalty, courage, sacrifice, valour, commitment the code of chivalry. In his personal life, he is carrying forward the glorious and time-honoured traditions of the House of Mewar.
