

& Much More

By the way I quit!!

It's not a passive statement. I know what everyone is thinking but let me finish.

Quitting anything is always difficult, be it a habit or a relationship. Quitting is never easy. But I am ready to quit. I am ready to quit ego, anger and stupidity.

I have seen many relationships which don't last long because of false ego and bad attitude.

Sonali has many friends but every time she suffers due to one or the other reason. Sometimes her friends take advantage of her and sometimes she feels cheated but problem remains the same. Sonali has lost some good relationships because she cannot quit anger and stupidity. Problem never dies. It keeps coming and only a person with a strong mind can overcome any problem in life.

Sonali's main problem is over trusting her friends and when some friend take advantage of her goodness, she becomes annoyed and shows her anger immediately.

Some people make friends easily but they don't know how to continue or sometimes they fail to understand the other person's intentions.

Prem loves a girl, Reena. Reena cares a lot about Prem. But Prem loses temper whenever Reena demands attention.

Prem wants 100% from Reena but is not ready to give time, energy and attention to Reena. These type of relationships don't last long. I think it's time for reality check. I want to quit ego which kills wisdom. I want to quit anger which is responsible for self destruction.

Stupidity makes me irritable. These three poisons don't let me think positive. This is an age where honesty, purity and loyalty are found in books. Those who practise these things, are called big fools.

But I want to remain old fashioned and in this world, I will be compassionate for those who don't speak good about me. I will forgive those who don't feel sorry for their bad behaviour. I will quit everything which stops me from being a good human. I quit, I quit, I quit, I, me and myself.

I hope I will be able to save many relationships this way. On the occasion of Holi festival, I will destroy my inner devils and at least remain calm and cool.

If you want to quit any bad habit on this occasion, you are most welcome. Enjoy holi with near and dear ones and burn each and every bad habit to make your world peaceful. Always remember that a momentary action can destroy any good relationship in a second.

You may lose any of your favourite person or relationship because of hot temperament or stupidity.

Ultimately it's going to harm you only. It's better to quit these wrong habits to save good relationships.

Lashkar Chowk- A Meaningful Play

Udaipur: (Vilas Janve)

Recently 15th All World Dawoodi Bohra Conference 2017, was organized at Bhartiya Lok Kala Mandal, Udaipur. This was an initiative by the Central Board of Dawoodi Bohra Community, Dawoodi Bohra Jamaat and Bohra Youth Association, Udaipur. Many prominent ideologists and speakers shared their views on Humanity and Communal Harmony. A full length Hind play "Lashkar Chowk" was staged by "Natyansh Society of Dramatic and Performing Arts" on this occasion to spread the fragrance of brotherhood.

This play was based on the story of Pandey Bechan Sharma "Ugra", Scripted by Dr. Ms. Kusum Kumar and further modified by young theatre artistes Amit Shrimali and Abdul Mubin Khan. The play portrayed scenario of pre Independence of India and showed how fanatic political leaders spoil the peaceful atmosphere of society.

Pandit Ramdas and his wife Panditain Leela are kind hearted and give shelter to a young needy woman.

They did not know that she (Kamar-un-nisa) was a sufferer of domestic violence of her Muslim husband Lathmar.

She hides her identity and declares herself a widow thakurain. Slowly she adjusts with Pandit family but one day her husband Lathmar captures her in Dhimapur village and drags her to Pandit's home scolding and blaming Pandit family and takes away Kama-un-nisa. The narrow minded Hindu leaders expel innocent Pandit family from Hindu religion. Poor Pandit family is rescued by Muslim leader (Maulvi) by converting them to Islam. Pandit's son Shyam becomes Madeen and marries Muslim girl Para. Time passes but Pandit family fails to coop with Muslim religion fully and decides to re adopt Hindu religion.

This brings turmoil in Politicians of Muslim and Hindu community. Khuda Ram a Sufi and neutral old man of village Dhimapur smells disaster and immediately involves ladies of both the communities to avoid unwanted blood struggle. During the process of resolving peace Kamar-un-nisa wife of Shyam (Madeen) is erful acting and received applauds. Palak Kayth as Bhikharan and Para displayed tremendous talent. She is a promising artiste. Mohammed Rizwan and Parak Jain as Rahgeer were natural. Young child artiste Raina Talreja was also good in her brief role. Poonam Bhoo, Nidhi Purohit and Nupur Basu as ladies of village justified their roles so as Shyam Bihari Yadav as Sharmaji.

Manish Sharma, Bhupendra Rawat, Chetan Sharma, Arya Chaudhry, Sandeep Pillai and Siddharth Sharma as villagers were natural in respective roles. Music was appropriate and was handled carefully by Hemant Ameta, Abdul Mubin Khan.

Senior dramatist from Jaipur Shahzor Ali designed lights for the play to enhance visual effects. Amit Shrimali who directed this play had to struggle a lot in restructuring the play with almost a new cast. He was successful up to some extent. He is a talented young artist but directing and acting simultaneously affect the final results.

He was assisted by Abdul Mubin Khan in direction. Prof. Arun Jain had come all from Banaras to handle the production. Rekha Sisodia introduced artistes after curtain call.

The play left good impact and enhanced the value of the Conference. A new lot of audience witnessed drama in Udaipur and generated love for it. This is a good sign of development of Theatre.

Voice of dissent should never be given up : Vajahat Habibullah

Dr. H.S. Chandalia

Udaipur: First Chairperson of the RTI Commission and the former Chairman of Minorities Commission of India Mr. Vajahat Habibullah said that the spirit of questioning authorities should not be given up in the face of the authority whether it is a religious leader or the state itself. The people must exercise their right to ask questions and ask for the accountability if they want to make a successful democracy. Mr. Vajahat was addressing the XV All World Dawoodi Bohra Conference in Udaipur on 11th March after inaugurating it. He stated that the right of citizenship of an individual cannot be usurped by a religious leader in the name of allegiance to a faith.

The conference which began with the slogans of "Freedom from Fear", Struggle for human dignity and the values of secularism and democracy was attended by hundreds of Bohra men and women from all over the country and also representation from abroad. Addressing the conference Prof. Faizan Mustafa, Vice Chancellor of NALSAR University, Hyderabad said that we need freedom of religion, we need freedom from religion. He pleaded for internal reforms in Islam and the question of giving equal treatment to minorities within minorities.

Padmashri Indira Jai Singh, senior lawyer, Supreme Court of India, said that there are several issues which are pending trial in the court of law. The question of excommunication of Bohra Youth has been pending with the Supreme Court of India for last ten years, the issue of demonetization and that of making Aadhar Card compulsory for all purposes are also pending in the court. She said that in the recent times asking questions which are uncomfortable to the establishment has become difficult. Suddenly people start asking about your faith, questioning your patriotism and challenging your nationalism. This is not what democracy stands for. Swami Agnivesh, an activist exhorted the Bohra Community to come out of the fold of religion and work for freedom in religion as well as freedom from religion. He said that all human beings were born as humans but later they got divided in religions and faiths. This has caused a lot of violence and suppression in the world. He called upon people of all faiths to realize the essential unity of mankind.

Former Chairperson of Rajasthan Sahitya Academy, activist and columnist Ved Vyas said that the threats of authoritarianism is increasing with right winged forces coming to power. They are all set to exercise their communal agenda. The Bohra community is fighting a just cause against their own Syedna but those powers who align with him and make him state guest are getting strength day by day. He said that the people should understand the seriousness of both and contemplate how to neutralize such powers. The conference was also addressed by Saifuddin Insaf, general secretary of the central committee of Dawoodi Bohra community who said that Islam began as a revolution against forces of suppression but over the years people have become indifferent.

He called upon all people who support human rights to align with Bohra youth to support their cause. His song "Chup na rahna, chup na rahna" was sung by a chorus in the beginning of the conference.

President of the Central Board of Dawoodi Bohra Community revolutionary poet Abid Adeb explained the circumstances in which the organization was formed to face the atrocities of Syedna. Haji Gulam Hussain and Haji Kamruddin Maliwala were felicitated on the occasion. Organizing secretary Hibtullah At tari offered a vote of thanks.
