Way back in 1893 Freedom Fighter Lokmanya

ebration in Maharashtra, Like Navratri Ganesh Utsav has Bal Gangadhar Tilak started become a prominent festival last few years many conscious persons redesigned and revised in the festival keeping in view threat to ecology. Governments also shared their concern over such issues like noise pollution, maintaining cleanliness in lakes and ponds and also maintaining law and order. We have to understand that Lord Ganesh is fond of Music and Dance but it does not mean that rubbish music and DJs are played on very high volume and dancing on roads brazenly.People have made it a place of unhealthy competitions and are spoiling the essence of this pious festival. The so called Nav Yuvak Mandals have made this festival as the means of their own recreation.People believe in Pomp and show which is not desired by Lord Ganpati. Lord ated with Maharastra

Ganpati happily blesses even poor and simple people who maintain physical, mental and ethical cleanliness.Lord Ganpati enjoys the simple Prasad and simple decoration but people impose their own agenda making every thing so elaborate that the natural flavor of festival is lost. Speaking of Udaipur "SARVAJANIK GANESHOTSAV" has been organised by Maharasthra Samaj for last 70 years. Their classical music and dance concerts. devotional programmes, drama and various healthy competitions in cultural activities and quiz competitions about culture of Maharashtra and National scenario had high quality. Stalwarts like Dr. KP Rode, Prof. GS Mahajani, Prof. GV Damle, Sh.WR Modak, Dr.VijayaApte and many other visionaery and concerned members have been associ-

Samaj. This year Classical Oddisi and Kathak concerts, Traditional Keertan, Devotional songs, Maha Arti, Ganesh hthrvasheersh Sahastravartan, Antakshari have been planned along with special cultural evening by children during Ganesh Utsav at Lokmanty Tilak Sabhagruh, Bhupalpura. President of Maharashtra Samaj Shri Satish Saikhedkar informed "This year onward the size of Eco friendly Ganpati will be small and the immersion will take place in a tub at Maharastra Bhavan after a brief Shobha yatra up to Shastri Circle".

Such initiative is welcome and other organizations should also give this a serious thought so that the Smart City is not polluted by any thing and this Eleven Days Festival passes with peace and harmony. Wishing every reader an Eco friendly Ganeshotsav.

Survey Predict Congress' Victory In Karnataka

New Delhi: Ahead of 2018 Assembly elections, pre poll s A pre-poll survey conducted in Karnataka reveals that if elections were to be held in Karnataka today, the winners would be the Congress. BJP would follow second, with better tally than last time Ahead of the 2018 elections C fore conducted the Pre-Poll survey in the state between July 19 and August 10. Their report gives the Congress anywhere between 120-132 seats and for the BJP it's 60-72 seats. The Regional party JD(S) is expected to get 24-30 seats. It's between 1-6 for others. The report has stated that the expected vote share for the Congress is 43 per cent and for the BJP it's 32 per cent. The JD(S) is expected to get 17 per cent.

C fore claims to have used systematic random sampling methodology in selecting respondents for this survey. A total of 24,679 voters were interviewed from 165 assembly constituencies using a structured questionnaire. According to the report, the respondents were spread across 340 urban and 550 rural locations in the state. The survey has also found out that CM Siddaramaiah's pet scheme Anna Bhagya is the most appreciated by the respondents. This is followed by the Mid day meal scheme. According to C fore, the most important problems being faced were drinking water shortage, bad roads, absence of garbage disposal and unemployment.

Last Person to be Reached & Empowered

Post-independence story of the common man of India is that of rising and falling expectations. Masses in large numbers helped the leaders to force British empire out in the hope that rule by own countrymen will end their miseries, the outcome of more than a thousand years of foreign exploitation and loot. Determined to work hard for a better living the poor masses of the nation got disillusioned within two decades of independence. Masses once again ousted the ruling dispensation, after unprecedented repression before and after emergency. Expectations for a just and better living once again rose high but new system just failed to survive. After more than a decade of another severe desperation, common man once again saw a bright light in the dark clouds of the nation when liberalisation and globalisation was launched with promises that the innovative change in the mind-set of the governing machinery will bring the last man to the forefront of development and progress.

However, Indian liberalisation failed to elevate the life of poor and our nation could not become global either.Lok Sabha elections of 2014 saw a massive rejection of the political system that had brought the nation to a situation of extreme political, economic, social and cultural bankruptcy. NDA led by Narendra Modi was given the clear mandate to make India once again Sone ki chidiya where there is neither poverty nor hunger. Mandate was for an integrated India where every person lives as an Indian irrespective of faith, caste or region. It was a cry of the people for good governance and inclusive growth. Expectations have once again been risen and every Indian is not only waiting for his share of good life but is also willing to be the change that was being planned. People of India have once again proved that they have full faith in the intrinsic strengths of a nation that is at least five thousand years old. On the independence day of 2017, the nation looks back at the performance of the government that it elected three years ago. Leaving aside the chronic sceptics, there appears to be a massive sense of relief and hope. It appears that nation is back on the wheels with instant positive changes and the initiation of measures that are bound to change the socio-economic scenario of the country not in far distant future but within a few years. A plethora of schemes and programmes have been launched by the Modi Government for the poor and marginalised sections of the society. For farmers and farm labourers schemes like Jan Dhan, life and crop insurance and village irrigation schemes are bound to prove as game changers for the majority of rural India. Subsidised cooking gas and construction of thousands of toilets in villages and priority lighting of rural households have already started showing results and improving the lives of rural women. For the young, both from rural and urban India, the schemes like Make in India, Digital India, Start-up India, Skilled India and others have opened doors not only for large scale employment opportunities but also for creating self-owned industry and business.

For the first time, people of India were witness to a massive onslaught on black money by sudden announcement of demonetisation. Added to this is the success of the present Government by making Swiss to disclose the names of the Indians holding accounts in that country. Most of our money, illegally accumulated by some people, is parked in other countries thus not available for our own developmental tasks. In three years, this money has reduced to one third. Modi has promised total return of black money deposited with foreign banks, and experience so far indicates that Modi delivers what he promises.

There is also a paradigm shift in the philosophical belief system in the Indian polity. India's rich knowledge traditions have thrown up a realistic and nature friendly philosophy of Integral Humanism. Entire creation of living and non-living is an integrated organic being, every unit is interconnected and dependent upon each other. Diversities arise from the basic unity and not that the diversity creates an illusory unity. The practical formula of Integral Humanism has been amply explained by Deendayal Upadhaya, the ideologue of BJP. If this political philosophy is followed by the Modi Government in letter and spirit, in a few years a new India can be built where last man has been reached and empowered and the issues of caste, minority-majority and deprived-benefited will just become the phe-- Prof. B.
