God or a Human :Your choice makes Your Life

The recent acquisition of Ram Rahim has left millions of followers of spiritual gurus in suspicion. Each such incident starting from Asaram to Ramal to Gurmeet questions the veracity of the gurus. And then also comes a question whether we need gurus at all? And if we do, where should we draw the line. A guru who is a saint by nature will not be found in luxury. An Ashram cannot be in lines with a hotel, and you should not be encouraged to make payments for any consultation. A guru would not need thousands of workers. There are people who have attained the level of divinity and now want to spread that among the people who are lost in life. But such gurus are not famous. They cannot give you any mantra to become a father of a boy child, or win a case, or be a millionaire. A guru can only lead you to the path of success by advising hard work. A guru will not read your future, instead, they will guide you the way to relinquish the bad habits and practices to achieve what you deserve in the future. A guru will not ask you to do certain rituals in order to attain something, he will only ask you to concentrate and be focused on things that matter. Actually, a Guru is a person who works as a middleman between you and yourself. Once you know what you and why are you here, you will know the purpose of life and you will start focussing on bigger goals of divinity. Now, the divinity cannot be attained by leaving the family or the world for that matter. Divinity is a stage where you can say that you did what you were asked to with all the positivity and honesty. Get your things done positively and leave the rest to your God. That's it. The path of divinity goes through Karma. You always have two options at any point of time while you are not sleeping. One is procrastinating or doing it through wrong means or doing it properly and through correct way. Each decision of you gets updated in a scale of nature. Good things lead to greater fortune and bad things lead to troubles and bad luck. There is no exception to this rule. And there is nothing else any Guru can tell you apart from this. So, your bad times mean that you are paying for bad deeds of the past and good times mean that you are reaping the benefit of great deeds. The line that cuts across both these situations is that the time will change. So, no need to be excessively happy or sad for that matter. To know which path leads to which destination, you get a small voice from inside you. When you crush that voice, you need a Guru to amplify the same voice. The guru has conquered the ability to listen to that voice and he can help you listen to that voice easily. Again, it's you who has to listen to that. So, if someone, self-proclaimed guru tells you to do certain rituals to get great fortunes, you are mistaken and are with the wrong Guru. Well, the tradition of Guru-Shishya has been there in our culture since ages. At that time, only designated Gurus could teach. And another good teacher was the time. Now, everyone is a teacher. You learn or not, everyone has something to teach you. If you start paying attention to the lessons scattered and available across your day and life, you will not have time to seek any advice or blessing from any Guru. If you need someone to see the God, you may fail miserably. You can only see the God and no matter how great you become in the field of divinity, you cannot make others see the God. Your God is inside you. Your God is only visible to you. You can feel your God easily and in every small big task of life.

All Set For PM Visit in City of Lakes

Udaipur: The much hyped visit of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to Udaipur will last a total of 3 hours. PM Modi will reach Udaipur at 1 pm and will leave back at 4 pm. All arrangements are getting final touch. Modi will start the programme by reaching Khelgaon at 1pm. After his public address, Modi will then proceed to Pratap Gaurav Kendra. Post inauguration of Pratap Gaurav Kendra, PM will return back in a special flight at 4pm. State Home Minister Gulab Chand Kataria said that Modi's address is expected to draw over 1 lakh people from around the region. Kataria informed that PM will inaugurate and lay foundation of programmes worth Rs 15000 Crore during his Udaipur visit. The current revival of monsoon is however proving a pain for the organizers. The current spell of heavy rains has left a lot of puddles in the public gathering area. Although covered areas have been set up for the address by PM Modi but managing the place for the large expected gathering is seeming like a challenge. Kataria said that we are making efforts for improving the water drainage system in the area so that there is minimal inconvenience due to the same. Considering the weather forecast, it is expected that there could be spells of rain either on the day of the gathering or one day before - each of which will add to the challenge for the administration. In Delhi Union minister Nitin Gadkari said Centre plans to launch road projects worth Rs. 1-lakh crore over the next two years and provide a robust highways infrastructure in Rajasthan. The road transport, highways and shipping minister said the length of National Highways in the state has been doubled to about 14,000 km, from the 7,000 km when the NDA government took over. "We plan to take up highway projects worth about Rs. 1 lakh crore in the state in the next two years," he said. The investment will be in addition to the existing and completed projects worth about Rs. 1 lakh crore, he said. A new expressway will be built connecting the national capital to the pink city in addition to the Delhi-Jaipur Highways which will be completed by December as about 90 per cent of the work has been done, he said. "The alignment for the new Delhi-Jaipur Expressway has been finalised. Land acquisition will be done shortly. This, on completion, will be an important milestone in the development of Rajasthan," he said, adding that one would be able to reach Jaipur from Delhi in two-and-a-half hours. Elaborating on the Rs. 15,000 crore projects, he said four of these are such which have been pending for a long time and include 6-lane Cable Stayed Bridge across river Chambal at Kota. The Cable Stayed 1.4 km long bridge in Kota, built at a cost of Rs. 278 crore, will be opened for traffic by the Prime Minister. The 11 projects to be inaugurated by Modi includes the Rs. 1,128 crore Gomati Chauraha-Udaipur project at Rajsamand. The other projects are in Bhihwar, Pali, Nagaur, Barmer, Sikar, Churu, Jodhpur, Jaisalmer and Barmer.

ARTH Organizes one day dissemination meeting on empowering young Udaipur: At Taruni Dissemination meeting held at Hotel Swaroop Vilas, Udaipur, senior gynecologists from city, NGO representatives from different parts and employees from the host organization ARTH gathered today to discuss the implications of issues pertaining to the Reproductive Health and the methods to empower the young women in taking control of their own fertility. Through a series of workshops for the community mobilizers and volunteers, ARTH plans to strengthen its efforts in helping women to become more independent in exercising the various available methods of contraception and fertility. ARTH aims to share the progress of the intervention with the delegates present at the meeting, invited discussions on the related issues, welcome constructive feedback and incorporate the same its efforts to carry forward the mission and objectives of project Taruni. Lack of access among poorer young women to information, counseling and services for reproductive health underlies low use and high unmet need for contraception. This lacuna is compounded whenever they face uncertainty and anxiety about becoming pregnant. Preventing or dealing with unwanted pregnancy often entails psychological or social costs, which when coupled with the inability to seek information or calmly take informed decisions, can lead to avoidable stress and non-use of services among young women. The Taruni project being implemented by Action Research & Training for Health (ARTH) since Dec 2014, enables women to readily and frequently self-assess their pregnancy status, seek information and commodities from neighbourhood volunteers, consult a telephone helpline, and easily access RH counseling and services at primary care clinics backed by escorted referral to specialists. All these interventions aim to enable reproductive choice and greater adoption of contraceptives and other reproductive health services, on part of young women aged up to 30 years. Intervention impact in brief: Taruni intervention is being implemented across four clusters of Udaipur and Rajsamand districts has helped the young women exercise contraceptive choices. A total of 4,416 pregnancy test kits, 3,649 oral contraceptive cycles, 10,744 condom pieces, 386 emergency pill packs and 1,748 sanitary pad packets (of 8 each) were sold by Taruni Sakhis at nominal, below market rates during the period April 2016 to 31 March 2017.
