

The system of democracy

In the midst of election campaigns, voting, counting, and then government formation, we've reached a stage where at least a few months are wasted totally. Not just the state that is facing elections, the entire nation gets stuck with this democratic system which ends up halting everything everywhere.

The main problem is national leaders are forced to jump into the local arena and support local candidates who clearly are unable to win on their own. So, the image and charisma of a leader who has nothing to do with the local issues and resolutions are used to influence people they do not know and least care about.

The entire system is in strong need of an overhaul. We, the people of the country wonder why an MLA who has worked for more than five years in the past cannot afford to face the public alone. Why they need support from other leaders and star personalities?

This is nothing less than an attempt to influence or intimidate people in ways other than those of real democracy. We always know that any rally does not get people gathered on their own. Most of the people are transported from remote areas to show that the leader has popular personality. Leaders too, take a comfortable way of orating written scripts and add creative punches to make it to the headlines.

Leaders comfortably read out new promises and this easily overshadows the pamphlet of promises distributed five years back. We never hear that a minister has come out with proof of development done by them in last five years before asking for votes in the next term. Those looking to defeat the existing leader would even make more impractical and rather silly promises to influence people.

And because both these leaders are devoid of concrete material to convince people, they bring their political big brothers and use a larger image of the party to cover up all that they failed to do and perhaps will fail further.

The ideal situation in a democracy should be very simple. The existing office bearer representative should not be there in the need for any campaign. You don't need to prove that a flyover was built in last five years or employment was improved in these years. All these and others are self-explanatory. Similarly in a positive approach to development, the newcomer or representative from the opposition will present a roadmap to the development they have for the next term, if they win.

Development has never been the issue at the helm and this is why it never got any recommendation or propositions in elections. Promises followed by abusing others is all that we see in elections.

But this is all that we have sowed for years, isn't it?

We have been voting for people who make false promises and do not stay accountable for their work. There is an option of NOTA if you feel to use. It needs a gentle push with the strongest mindset that we want our country developed in real. Let the good people stay and kick the corrupts out. You can do this

Technological advancements a key factor in India's performance in indices like 'Ease of Doing Business', says Dr. Sambit Patra Udaipur: National Spokesperson of BJP, Dr. Sambit Patra, asserted the importance and contribution of technological advancements and an innovation sustainable environment in India's leap by 30 places in the 'ease of doing business' index by the World Bank at the opening of the 13th ENGIMACH held on Wednesday.

The 5-day long colossal exhibition held at Gandhinagar was held to showcase the remarkable growth witnessed by the engineering sector in India over the last few years.

Dr. Patra also drew attention to India's remarkable performance in not just one, several other similar indices of international levels. He also hailed the efforts of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's and his vision, in the country's huge improvement in various fields. "India's exceptional performance in global indices, in just a few, short years, says a lot about the growth of individual sectors. The country has secured a spot in the top 100 in the 'ease of doing business' listing. Indices like these are prepared considering a number of parameters, including the development of technology and the level of innovation-friendliness.

For the country to leap through such high points, not just according to World Bank's listings, but various other listings as well, within such a short span of time, therefore, is a huge achievement. It is an achievement which has been made possible only by the able guidance and strong leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi," said Dr. Sambit Patra.

The inaugural ceremony of 13th ENGIMACH was inaugurated by Chief Guest Dr. Sambit Patra, along with Guests of Honour, Shri Surendra Patel, Ex. M.P., Rajya Sabha, Treasurer, BJP, Gujarat State and President, CHARUSAT University, Shri Kamlesh Gohil, CMD, K and D Communications, Shri Sunil Shah, Chairman, Gujarat Innovation Society and Shri Nilesh Shukla, President, VCCI, Vadodara.

"It is a matter of great pride for Gujarat and its people, to be conducting the country's largest technology exposition. Reputed companies from nearly 32 countries have participated in this mega event, along with SMEs and nearly 10,000 engineering and technology students. Many SMEs with immense potential may find it difficult to compete in business at a global level. 13th ENGIMACH has been an ideal platform for many years now for such entities to display their potential. For students we have secured special visiting hours, to facilitate better knowledge sharing and understanding," said Shri Kamlesh Gohil, CMD, K and D Communication 'ENGIMACH2017' is supported by Machine Tools Manufacturers' Association, Rajkot, Ludhiana Machine Tools Manufacturers' Association, Ludhiana and National Small Industries Corporation (NSIC). Shakespeare's play 'The Taming of the Shrew' at Mumbai Mumbai: Celebrated writer William Shakespeare, a well-known English poet, playwright and actor, widely regarded as the greatest writer in the English language and the world's pre-eminent dramatist, has a universal appeal across the globe in all languages. It is proudly said that the iconic London playwright, and the creator of Hamlet, Macbeth and Romeo and Juliet has bequeathed his tragedies and comedies, his sonnets and verse, which would survive for ages.

Taking a leaf from his book, "What's In A Name", an upcoming theatre company helmed by producer Kanupriya Pandit is gearing up in staging a Shakespearean English comedy, The Taming Of The Shrew, in January 2018. The play is being directed by Deshik Vansadia who will also perform a starring role in it too. The main plot surrounds themes of courtship and relationship. The sub-plot features a competition between suitors and the 'ideal' woman. It also highlights the gender equality between a man and a woman. All said and done, the novel concept to be noted about the play being staged is that the men will play the women's roles while the women will portray the men's roles.

Deshik Vansadia, the actor-director of this English play, The Taming Of The Shrew hails from Navsari in Gujarat. Deshik trained as an actor at the Stella Adler Studio of Acting in New York for three consecutive years. During his stay in America, he also had the privilege of training at the renowned institution Shakespeare & Company for two more years. Honing his acting skills, Deshik found himself cast in prominent roles with various theatre groups. In Los Angeles, he performed the lead role of 'Romeo' in a Romeo & Juliet production, which was applauded and fetched him laurels too. From thereon, he became an ardent fan of Shakespearean plays, performing lead roles in a great many plays around the world. Coming to this tinsel town, Mumbai, Deshik Vansadia built upon his acting tutelage, securing versatile roles in plays, music albums, television serials, films and even commercials too. His stay in America also helped him to speak English well and thus he finds himself comfortable voicing dialogue in English. Earlier, on the occasion of William Shakespeare's 400th death anniversary, Deshik directed an English play Measure for Measure for 'All India Radio,' which was about a saint who is fascinated by a girl. The play is aired even today every Sunday. Thereafter, he directed and acted in a play titled The Boy Who Stopped Smiling which focused on an extraordinary and intelligent 8-year-old boy who finds it difficult to interact with normal peers. The show was staged in Mumbai at the noteworthy Prithvi Theatre, as well as at NCPA and other parts of the country to a good response. Speaking about his new play, The Taming of the Shrew, the talented actor-director Deshik Vansadia expresses, "In today's generation there is a vast difference when we talk about equality between man and woman. The play sheds light on this issue. Even today, if a girl wears modern dress, she is looked at with an antagonistic eye. In most cases, it is the man's power taking the center-stage. But the truth is no one should be treated big or small; irrespective of gender, one should share equal one-ness." He further adds, "The play is in Shakespearean English; but the moods, emotion, and prose is all in Indian."

The play is being staged not only in Mumbai, but also in Ahmedabad, Delhi, Bangalore, Rajasthan and other places too. With its controversial, contemporary themes, the Shakespearean drama is sure to spur debate and attract large audiences.

Toyota to increase prices by up to 3% in January, 2018

Udaipur: Toyota Kirloskar Motor likely to hike prices across its models by up to 3% from January 2018. The company considered the price rise after reviewing input and freight costs periodically, which is also a general industry phenomenon. "There has been an increase in the cost of manufacturing of vehicles. Frequent fluctuation in the global commodity prices and foreign exchange rates have continued to impact our input costs, from both domestic as well as import fronts. Toyota has been absorbing the additional costs all this while, protecting the customers from the price increase. However, due to the continued pressure of high costs, Toyota is considering a price increase of up to 3% across models with effect from Jan 2018. To further enhance customer delight in the year end, we are offering a bountiful offer under the Remember December Campaign for Toyota customers. Under Remember December Campaign, our customers can avail attractive schemes like 100% on road financing, interest rates starting at 4.99%, special EMI package. It also comprises of benefits ranging from Rs 40,000-Rs 90,000 varying from model to model across regions, also including additional benefits for Government and Corporate Employees. All these offers are valid up to December 31st", as said by Toyota Kirloskar Motor spokesperson.

A GRAND EXTRAVAGANZA, THE SECOND EDITION OF LUX GOLDEN ROSE AWARDS IS BACK

Udaipur: Setting a milestone in its premiere edition, being the first ever awards show to celebrate India's female cinematic legends, the Second Edition of Lux Golden Rose Awards 2017 is geared up once again to raise the bar further.

Gracing the occasion with his well-known charm and popularity, the King of Bollywood, Shah Rukh Khan will reprise his role as the host in the second edition. As a prelude to the awards, SRK hosted a chat show - Lux Golden Divas - Baatein With Baadshah, where he engaged with leading ladies Deepika Padukone, Alia Bhatt, Kareena Kapoor Khan, Madhuri Dixit and Katrina Kaif and had them reveal their unseen sides and beauty through the characters they portray onscreen.

Presented by India's very first beauty soap, Lux, this year's ethos is #IAmMoreThanYouCanSee; a tagline which encapsulates the passion, individuality, sensitivity and strength the remarkable leading ladies put into creating timeless iconic characters that stay etched in the hearts of millions. Fans and connoisseurs of the Indian film industry are abuzz with anticipation for the second edition of the show which honors Bollywood actresses for portraying versatility with zest. Lux Golden Rose Awards has an unparalleled and original concept that celebrates the women of Bollywood, recognizing them for the beautiful, glamorous and gutsy characters they have portrayed on the silver screen.

Commenting on the occasion, Sandeep Kohli, Executive Director and Vice President - Personal Care at Hindustan Unilever Limited said "Our brand-LUX has an iconic status in the beauty market, as a forerunner in associating with the most gorgeous faces of Indian Cinema. Instituting Lux Golden Rose Awards, we aimed at building an extravagant and unified platform to celebrate these women and the powerful roles they have essayed on the silver screen. Taking this basic ethos ahead in our next edition of the awards, we will be taking the camera lens closer to these beauties and unveil facets and secrets which make them iconic personas they are today. Following last year's spectacular response, we are looking forward to bringing audiences another year of an exceptional extravaganza." Interestingly the TVC that announced the second edition of the awards, brings this message alive beautifully onscreen. Commonly perceived as rivals, Bollywood heroines apart from their larger than life persona are hyped as being fierce and coldly competitive with each other. The refreshing ad film is based on the theme of #IAmMoreThanYouCanSee which brings to life a warm reality; wherein these strong personas' not only co-exist but are surprisingly fans and an inspiration to each other. Writing letters to the other, each of these actresses expresses their admiration while letting audiences a peek into the persona and uniqueness of the other actress. Alia received a warm letter from Deepika and wrote a fan letter herself to Kareena. The bold yet beautiful Kareena Kapoor Khan in turn penned a letter to reigning queen Deepika Padukone appraising her for her performance and persona.

The Lux Golden Rose Awards show will be held at Yash Raj Studios in Mumbai on 10th December 2017 and air on 24th December at 8pm, Star Plus.
