The change has begun

Many of the recent political changes have signified that no party can rule permanently. The fortresses, which many political parties had rules for years and even decades, have been reduced to ashes. This spells the power of people in a democracy. It also signifies that people want nothing but work and results. And the sooner political leaders understand this, the better

BJP. The list is getting longer and now, finally, the political parties are feeling the heat.

Rhetoric and politics and caste are fast disappearings from the speeches of leaders. Now they are forced to talk what they did in their last tenure instead of presenting old unfulfilled promises in new packages.

This is just the beginning of a new era where political parties and their leaders will have low significance and the people will matter the most. For each of the actions taken by the government, a convincing answer will be needed with proper explanation. Perform or perish is now the new norm and people sitting in higher positions need to realize this.

Be it tweets or media posts, people have started to ignore the hate speeches. Questions are being asked which are straight and sharp. When a leader aims his rival over an issue, people first ask if the man who is asking has done any better. Allegations now cannot be pure rhetoric. People won't even listen if the abuse hurled at someone is toothless. When a leader comes with allegations, people cross check facts. The world of information is wide and open. Baseless allegations and abuse do a boomerang and it affects the credibility the worst. This changed phenomenon of being informed and acting smart has cleaned up a lot of mud that always existed in the politics. We have seen pretty low in politics and now it's the time to rise.

All these changes, which are still not-so-apparent, are set to become the order of the day. Each of the act, decision, non-action, delay, rhetoric etc must accompany with a credible explanation. You cannot take the public for granted anymore. You dodge their queries, they dump you forever.

The momentum is picking up. The need is to keep it strong and ensure, we as public keep the power in our hands and monitor each and everything, which is being done. From the guality of the material being used to services in offices, keep examining each of the functions. This is our country and we must own it positively with all the responsibility.

Anvita got married few months back to Ramit. Both live in a metro city, far from their parents. Ramit lost his job soon after his marriage. He did not want to trouble his parents for money. Ramit had spent money to buy luxurious items and branded clothes for both. Now he does not have savings to run his home smoothly. Ramit is nor close to his cousins neither his other family members. Anvita started to fight over different issues due to financial problems. One day she left home without telling Ramit.

Ramit's father took the initiative to talk to Anvita when he came to know about this. He called Ramit to his home and tried to console him.

Ramit broke down and cried on his father's shoulder. Ramit discussed each and every problem with his parents. Ramit's relatives gave him mental support in this adverse situation which he was not expecting. After one year of struggle, Ramit is now happily living his life with Anvita. He got a much better job in other company. This whole episode made him realize the value of family.

These days youngsters are living seperately from parents in other cities. Habit of taking drugs and booze are increasing in young generation. Youngsters have developed a habit of spending money on branded products. They don't believe in saving money for future. Most of them live in the present which is not a sign of maturity. We should enjoy the present moment but its really good to secure our future too. No one comes to help us in tough situations. When we indulge into any trouble, our own relatives and friends avoid us. Its better to save money for bad times and enjoy life sensibly.

My mother has always encouraged me to save money. We spend money on the basis of our requirements. I discuss even small issues with my mother. Parents are more experienced than their children. I have learnt basics values at this age to understand life. I am not saying that troubles won't occur in my life. I am sure I will be able to handle my problems successfully with my family's support. I wish other youngsters understand this and start giving value to their families.
