Cong gags its Raj leaders over Gehlot - Pilot - Schism

Jaipur: The Rajasthan Congress' attempt to put up a united front against the Vasundhara Raje-led Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) government is faltering, with perceived differences surfacing between former chief minister Ashok Gehlot and state unit chief Sachin Pilot. The party high command has issued a gag order on its Rajasthan leaders speaking in favour of either of them.

The development comes days after the Congress leadership in Delhi decided to fight the upcoming polls under the joint leadership of all senior state leaders such as Gehlot, Pilot, former Union ministers CP Joshi and Bhanwarjitendra Singh, without projecting anyone as its chief ministerial candidate.

This has not gone down well with the party cadre in Rajasthan, which has started becoming more vocal about their choice of leader in the state. It was apparent in the one-day workshop on election management organised in Jaipur last week in which both Gehlot and Pilot participated. At the workshop, Gehlot said that whenever someone is appointed state party chief, a few people try to convince him to dream of becoming CM. "I had told Sachin Pilot to be aware of such people. I did not get trapped and became the CM," Gehlot said. Pilot responded by saying he had taken the benefit of "of your (Gehlot's) experience" and distanced himself from such people after becoming state unit chief.

Gehlot added another dimension to his earlier statement in Udaipur during press meet, saying no one had the right to project himself as the chief ministerial candidate because it was against the Congress tradition. "Whosoever presents himself as CM face cannot become CM. The party high command knows about the demand of the people on the ground and they will take a decision at an appropriate time on peoples' feedback and MLAs' choice," he said.

prospects, the party high command quickly went into damage control mode, first by saying that Gehlot's statement had been "misinterpreted" and then issuing the gag order.

"We have asked all party leaders not to speak on the party's face for elections. We will fight the elections unitedly," said Avinash Pande, Congress in-charge of Rajasthan. Pande had termed statements in favour of any leader as "irresponsible" and an attempt to weaken the party.

Pande issued the order as a chorus supporting Gehlot for the CM's post was growing louder. Former union minister and known Gehlot loyalist Lal Chand Kataria described Gehlot as the people's choice for CM, which was later supported by All India Congress Committee (AICC) members Sanjay Bapna and Pradesh Congress Committee member Prahlad Raghu. Many district level leaders have also spoken in favour of Gehlot in the past one week.

This war of words over the leadership issue has left the party worried with senior leaders telling the party high command that such a fight in the open will help the BJP as it was sending the message that Congress leaders are more concerned about power than people and issues.

WELCOME STEP Library has already issued a lifetime membership to a transgender Kota: (Dr. Prabhat Kumar Singh) In a ground-breaking move, Government PDDU Divisional Public Library of Kota has become the state's first and country's second public library to open its door for the LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender) community. The first public library to offer membership to LGBT community is in Kerala.

The Kota library, which has added a column for the third gender in its membership form, has already issued its lifetime membership to a transgender, Sahiba (42), a resident of the city. "Education is a right which has been always denied to us. We suffered discrimination the most at educational institutions. To gain membership in a library and to borrow books had been my long-cherished dream," said Sahiba, who has passed Class 7 and reads newspapers daily. "It is a huge recognition for us to be part of a library and many people would be benefited by this decision," she added. Sahiba said that had the library opened its door for the community earlier, many of them would have joined its membership by now.

Commenting over the decision, Dr Deepak Kumar Shrivastava, the divisional librarian and head of the library, said, "It is high time the society accepts them (LGBT community). Through library memberships, we aim to provide them a platform. A new world will be opened for them, which was denied to them earlier." It is important to mention here that the library already offers services to the visually impaired and differently-abled people. It provides text-to-speech (TTS) facility in Hindi and English, instant reading machine, Focus 40, Braille books, online books, offline audio books and Plectalk Vachak among other facilities.

The library has also taken initiatives in community engagement innovations. It is providing tele-health services with the help of renowned doctors from Medanta The Medicity. Besides, it also providing consultancy through e-clinics.

The library also provides e-mail homework assistance to the children of Kota city. Now, the library collection can also be accessed through its e-library website.

First Mewari Dictionary Launched by Nirmaan Society

Udaipur: Nirmaan Society from Chittorgarh with the support of MMCF took a great initiative to preserve and promote the mother tongue of Mewar. A brand new Mewari word dictionary has been launched by Nirmaan Society. This is the first Mewari dictionary ever. This dictionary will help tourists as well as locals to understand the roots of the language and understand the culture of Mewar.

Nowadays, people of Mewar have forgotten about Mewari completely. Instead of that, they prefer Hindi or English. It's not that using a certain language is wrong but one should know the regional language of the place they belong to.

This dictionary consists of Mewari songs, Mewari alphabets, a map of Mewar, process of using Mewari dictionary, abbreviations and word meanings. Most of the words gathered in the dictionary are taken from a village near Khapan tehsil. The words used in it has got checked by people from various areas in Mewar.

The Mewari dictionary is equipped with approx. 6406 words of Mewari language. Not just this but every Mewari word is combined with its English and Hindi meaning, its pronunciation, grammar related to it and the sentence constructed from the particular word in Mewari.

This Mewari dictionary has two editions one of which was published in April 2017 and the second edition was published in January 2018. The launching of the second edition of the Mewari dictionary was attended by respected Arvind Singh Mewar.
