Casting Couch in Film Industry

Mumbai: Silver screen seems to be a world full of glamour, treasure (Izzat) and celebrations. We observe that in Bollywood heroines are celebrities, showered with lime-light, leading a luxurious life and enjoying the love of huge fan followings but this is the bright side of the coin on the contrary there is a dark side also which is unbelievable, undesirable and unpredictable that is the world behind the silver screen. Everyday thousands of adolescent, teenagers and even boys and girls of tender age alight from different trains in Mumbai from all over the country.

They enter Mumbai with lots of dreams and fantasies glittering in their eyes. These teenagers are innocent and mostly ignorant about the truth and darkness behind the silver screen. They come to Mumbai to become heroes and heroines. They don't want to settle for less than that. Boys somehow explore shelters or a place to stay from where they can carry out struggle to become heroes. And they somehow accommodate with local residents to stay in Mumbai. But situation for girls is totally adverse and dangerous. Mostly teenage girls with fair complexion, beautiful face and good figure enter Mumbai with a confidence that there assets will help them to become a film star on silver screen. But these innocent buds forget that dreams and fantasies do not come true in practical life.

It is a bitter truth that around Railway Stations, Bus Stands, there are groups of anti social elements who are everywhere hunting for the prey. If these innocent Bollywood aspirants somehow escape from them, these boys and girls head towards the casting agencies who claim to be the best gateway to give a chance in film, albums, daily soap, Ad Agencies etc. There are some reputed and authentic casting agencies in Mumbai who are reliable and actually strive for selecting and casting the best candidate for acting in films. But these registered agencies can be counted on fingers having high reputation long experience and working for decades at one place with dedication.

The Dark Side

On the other hand there are large number of casting agencies, touts, brokers, mediators, scrupulous agents and offices with Fake identity. They are indulged in illegal activities like human trafficking. If any girl falls in their clutches, her future and career spoils forever. They claim to be associated with big banners and reputed production houses and also famous film stars and their aim is to somehow convince the new comers for compromise. These are called casting couch. Once their selfish demand is fulfilled they supply the girls to others. Even if they offer roles for extra or background dancers or even short presence on the screen they exploit the fresher physically mentally and financially. For long years the most peculiar fact is that not only girls, the boys are also physically exploited in due course of struggle.

My Close Observation

I have also been a struggler for several years in film industry and have observed the dark side of the lime light. I could be secured from all this menace because I come from well to do, educated and supportive family. Besides that I was mature at an early age. I had also sufficient information from different sources about the film industry and I was aware of all the pitfalls in film world. Being a film Director, Actor and Script writer and I got an opportunity to watch different grey shades behind the screen closely.

My Advice to Freshers

After knowing the above truth and practical facts about the film industry I would like to suggest the teenagers and film aspirants to think practically. Be mature and act rationally secondly, your parents are your well wishers, take them in confidence and always act according to their advice. If you reveal your dreams your parents and elders will understand your aspiration & you will certainly get their full support. I personally know many struggling actors whose mother, father elder brother or sister have settled in Mumbai for their protection and promoting their career through decent means. Today they are totally secured and flourishing in the Bollywood successfully, busy with films, serials, ad-shoots and albums etc. Fresher's and strugglers must keep in mind if you are strong and well determined, if you refuse to compromise none can force or compel you to do so.

Advice to Parents :-

On the other hand I would suggest to the parents that be suggest to the parents that be supportive and close to your child and try to understand their tender Emotions and instead of scolding them stand by them as a Guide, Teacher and Mentor for their healthy growth. Your Son or Daughter must have deep confidence in you to share his / her aspirations, Joy, Sorrow, Disappointment. Frustration with you like a true friend, so that your teenage child doesn't deviate towards and select wrong options in any unknown direction. You must keep a close vigilance over your Childs friends since they may be a source of provocation for pushing your child astray. Parents must not curb the feelings and talents of their children with force.

I would feel Satisfied

If this article written by me could save a single teenager from the dangers of the film industry, My effort to write this article will be justified and rewarded and I shall feel satisfied. This article is not focused on the dark side of the film industry but is concentrated to make the youth aware of the pitfalls and challenges of the glamorous world. The above facts will help them to groom their personality so strong that their life becomes prosperous and they make their family and society feel proud.

Keep Thy Safe!

From internet-based instant messaging systems to social networking sites, a web of propaganda and hate news has become pervasive. Fake news gets manufactured somewhere in a computer owned by an anti-social element and then it gets propagated from one mobile device to another and so on. This is a serious issue as the message could disturb the peace and harmony if a few readers are made to believe the veracity of the deception.

People who are less aware of the facts can get swayed away and try to retaliate in the same terms. The moment this unrest commences, the purpose of the news manufacturer gets fulfilled. Of course, the manufacturer sits back and enjoys the fruit.

This is the very reason why education is so important. Well educated people act sensibly over any such message and generally prefer to ignore the same. Such ignorance not only defeats the motive of hatemonger or conspirator, but it also blocks the filthy water from entering into the drawing rooms of many others.

With the mushrooming of such fake news from all corners of the media, the need for a phony news detection and prevention too arose. Today there are some ways to detect fake news. As a responsible citizen, you not only need to stay away from any conspiracy against the society you live in, but you also need to block the chain at least at your end.

This is not just about hate messages of the politically motivated news item; it also applies equally to the possible frauds around you.

Many websites that look like a genuine bank could send you a message asking your vital details in order to process cash back or discount. Unless you are vigilant and careful, you could quickly fall into their trap.

The agents who collect your documents on behalf of financial institutions appear sober and gentlemen. And most of them genuinely are. But then a single fraudster could empty your bank account quickly. All you need to know is the real requirement of the institution and handover only the required documents. Also, ensure to write the purpose of the document even if the agent appears honest. A general argument these agents put up is about trusting them. Means, if you are careful, they might make you feel embarrassed for not believing them. Remember, you may or may not accept them but you being careful, is an indication that you are educated.

Today in the age of technological innovations and advancements, staying away from technology will be suicidal, but with that, you need to be careful and sensible. You are not required to trust a message from a political leader unless it comes from their own verified account. Similarly, any word or call from bank processing your discount cannot be trustworthy, if it asks your bank details.

Technology is a boon only if we follow the rules. Any idea of life, when played by rules becomes most profitable. The moment you get swayed away with a rotten biased message or bank lottery schemes, you become vulnerable.

Teachers: The Architects of our Society

On September 5, we celebrate the birth anniversary of Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, the Second President of India, who was a profound philosopher, a reminiscent teacher and a great humanist at heart. His birthday has been celebrated as Teachers' Day in dedication to all the teachers for their immense contribution in nurturing leaders, visionaries and responsible citizens of our nation. On this day, I thank our Lord Jesus Christ for all the teachers all over for their lives of great service to the nation and humanity at large. The gentle gesture of holding a hand and guiding and the noble way of enlightening young minds simply bestows upon them the characteristic of being the most influential person in students' lives. Teachers impart good values to children and turn them into accountable, empowered and caring human beings. Looking back on the years gone by, we all are grateful for the vital role our very own teachers have played in shaping our lives. Malala Yousafzai, the youngest Nobel Prize laureate has aptly said, "One book, one pen, one child, and one teacher can change the world." Indeed, the positive influence of teachers lasts for generations to come. They are the nation builders, the architects of our society. Today, with the emergence and rapid technological advancements, the landscape of education has changed. Consequently, the role of our teachers too has changed over time. Speaking about integration of technology in education, Bill Gates has beautifully stated, "Technology is just a tool. In terms of getting the kids working together and motivating them, the teacher is most important." Technology is here to transform education and not to replace educators. It is the role of the teachers to use it fruitfully to transform lives and enhance learning outcomes. I strongly believe that while technology does its bit, teachers as facilitators add the desired human touch and instill values for holistic development and uplift the essence of education.

Teachers are an integral part of the educational system. And in this ever evolving globalized world, teachers cannot afford to remain stagnant or old fashioned in their teaching pedagogy. Teachers need to constantly upgrade themselves in order to keep pace with ever evolving learning patterns and diverse learners themselves. John Dewey would say, "If we teach today as we taught yesterday, we rob our children of tomorrow." There is always something new to learn and if teachers fail to do this, they are doing injustice to their noble calling. Education system demands teachers to be resource persons who as facilitators will be able to provide or guide students in getting the right information they are looking for. Although things are available on just a click of a mouse, students need support from their teachers to understand and learn new concepts and skills. Students look up to teachers as mentors and role models who inspire, encourage and boost their confidence to always strive to bring out the best in them and live life to the fullest. Finally, on this Teachers' Day, dear teachers, we acknowledge and appreciate your valuable contribution to the society. We urge you to continue to live your vocation to the fullest and pray that may God bless you and keep you and be gracious to you."

Wish you a Very Happy Teachers' Day!

Every Festival Leaves the Lakes In Horrible Condition

by some of the hoteliers, such menace increases after the sacrifices of animals on religious festivals. It is disgusting to see intestines and lumps of flesh of animals floating on the lakes water which attracts tourists from all over the world.

On Sunday, followed by the Eid, the lake volunteers Dr. Anil Mehta, Tej Shankar Paliwal, Pallab Datta, Digambar Singh, Nand Kishore Sharma, Ramesh Chandra Rajpoot, Dr. Nishtha Jain, Drupad Singh, Ram Lal Gahlot removed the flesh amidst severe smell.

"The meat residue when attacked by the fungi releases dangerous toxins in the water which cannot be removed by usual water treatment processes. The large intestine of animals contains 10,000 million (some 3.3 x 10<sup>13</sup>) viable bacteria. The microorganisms like Salmonella spp., Shigella spp., E. coli, B. proteus, S. epidermidis and Staph. aureus, Cl. welchii, B. cereus and faecal streptococci may get released in the water and transmit to residents and can cause lethal diseases like anthrax, bovine tuberculosis, brucellosis, salmonellosis, listeriosis, trichinosis or taeniasis, some of the diseases even cause death, feared Dr. Anil Mehta, Joint Secretary, Jheel Sanrakshan Samiti.

Extensive efforts are required to prevent people from the ill effects of the toxins generated due to dumping of animal meat residue into water bodies. There is a need to increase community awareness to prevent meat residue immersion. The lake lovers have requested the municipal authorities to place containers in different locations to help people dispose the meat residues after the festivals; and biosafe disposal afterwards.

Udaipur: (Dr. Anil Mehta)

Every festival leaves the lakes in horrible condition, be it Navratri or Eid. The lakes have suffered a lot after this Eid due to indiscriminate disposal of residue of slaughtered animals into the lakes.

The water of the lakes is used as drinking water and contamination caused by rotten meat residue may spread various diseases. Although, the unused meat is also thrown in the lakes throughout the year
