SERVING PEOPLE - AN INHERENT PART OF MY UPBRINGING SAYS PM MODI

Hon'ble Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke about his childhood and humble beginnings to Humans of Bombay - a widely known blogging page on Facebook and Instagram that chronicles the stories of Mumbai and those who are associated with the city of dreams in some way or the other.

"My family of 8 lived in a 40x12 feet house - it was small, but enough for us. Our days began early, around 5 AM when my mother would provide traditional forms of curing and healing to newborns and small children.

Through the night my brother and I would take turns to keep the 'chula' going for her to use. She didn't have the fortune of getting an education, but God was kind and she had a special way of curing ailments.

Mothers would line up outside our house every morning because she was known for her healing touch.

Then, I would open my father's tea stall at the railway station, clean up and head off to school. As soon as school ended, I would rush back to help him, but what I really looked forward to was meeting people from all over the country. I would serve them tea and listen to their stories - that's how I learnt to speak Hindi. I would hear some traders speak about 'Bambai' and wonder, 'Will I ever get to see the city of dreams?'

I was always curious - I would go to the library and read everything I could get my hands on. I was 8 when I attended my first RSS meeting, and 9 when I was a part of an effort for the betterment of the lives of others - I set up a food stall with my friends to help the victims of the floods in parts of Gujarat.

I wanted to do more, but I was aware that we had little means. Still, even at that age, I strongly believed that God has made us all alike.

It didn't matter what circumstances I was born into, I could be something more. So when you ask me, what my struggles were, I'll tell you that I had none. I came from nothing, I knew no luxury and hadn't seen a 'better' life, so in my small world...I was happy.

If the way was ever difficult, I made my own way. I had a great need to look sharp and groomed. So, even though we couldn't afford an iron, I would heat some coal, use an old 'lota', wrap a cloth around it and press my clothes - the effect was the same, then why complain?

This was the beginning of everything that I am today and I didn't even know it at the time. So if you ask the 8 year old Narendra Modi, running around serving chai and cleaning his father's tea stall, whether he even dared to dream about becoming the Prime Minister of India, his answer would be no. Never. It was too far to even think about."

By the way Hoping to get Freedom some day

World is celebrating women empowerment everywhere. We always talk about Kalpana Chawla, Sunita Williams, Indira Gandhi and many Indian females who have done extraordinary work for our country.

We don't talk about those ordinary females who are working in small companies or schools etc. We don't talk about housewives who work endlessly without getting tired. These women are never appreciated for their sacrifices. Males have every right to comment on the dignity or characters of their co-workers or wives or even girl friends. Males have full right to destroy their characters with bad mouth publicity. Males can love or cheat any time but they can't see a woman doing that.

A female has been targeted since ages. Draupadi was insulted in a palace which was called 'Dharma Sabha'. She was surrounded by males who called her with bad names. Her only fault was that she accepted Kunti's order to be the wife of her five sons. She had no other choice.

Do we have any choice in 21st century?

Many modern people won't agree with this. They will give 100 reasons of women liberty and freedom. These so called educated males can't see a woman laughing on road with her colleague. They can easily judge a woman from her clothes. They don't have to know her before judging her character. Any man can comment on the body of any woman. It does not cost him a single penny.

Have you ever thought about the fact or reason behind this sick mentality?

Actually a male can not see a female to over power him. He has been taught to see a female as a sex object only. When a woman gives him competition, he feels offended. Males have everything to be discussed about but a female has only one thing, 'character' which everyone can make fun of.

Radhika works in a company. She is a single mother. Her colleague Ravi supports her in daily life and always ready to offer help without any condition. Radhika's elder brother does not like Ravi. He stops Radhika to talk to Ravi. Radhika lives alone with her son and daughter. Radhika's brother live in another city and can not come to help Radhika. Radhika's co-workers comment on her relationship with Ravi. Radhika did not bother in the beginning but slowly she got to know about the rumours of her love affair with Ravi. Radhika's brother insulted her in front of all family members in a function. Radhika tried to explain her pure relationship with Ravi but nobody believed her.

Radhika applied for another job and left the city. She does not know that she may have changed her job or city but she can never change the mentality. She has to face it till the end of her life. There might be another Ravi who will provide her help and in the end she will face the same consequences. It's really shameful for us that we can not provide females a secure and safe world even in 21st century.

World is getting faster and women are getting ready to serve their countries in each and every field but our society is not ready to accept the change. We are stuck up in judging the characters of females by her dressing sense or drinking habits.

We become God when we talk about other women.

Suddenly we get third eye to destroy her character. We don't need any surgical instruments to do so.

No movement of freedom can teach these males to talk good about females. Their tongues are real character certificates which they distribute quite often to females. Rape or teasing are their birth rights. When a female does not listen to their ego, they can talk ill behind her back. Single women are soft and easy targets. Males can't digest their free and happy lives. In many remote areas females are being raped to give punishment to their families. Wealth and power are captured by few people who have always treated women as trophies.

This whole system has to be changed once and for all. Women are also human beings. They have to be treated equally. Compassion and humanity are not only words, these are equal to females. We can't imagine our world without females but we are not ready to give them freedom. Commenting on their characters may satisfy your male ego but it is truly showing and revealing your own character. Raping a girl is not making you a man but it is making you a devil. It's good to see these males behind bars but damaging a female's character is still not a punishable act. There is no rule or regulation to stop this. True horror is to see these men everywhere.

We can't even discard them from our families. Criminals may be put behind bars but what about those who do crimes on daily basis and can't even caught.

I hope our society may get enlighten some day and females get justice. After all future depends upon hope and hope gives us energy to live with dignity.
