Udaipur: The XVI Annual Conference of Rajasthan Association for Studies in English on Widening Canvas, Shrinking Spaces: Writer and Society Today will be held at Smt. Madi Bai Mircha Government Girls College, Nagaur on Nov. 9-10, 2019. The President of the Association Prof. Rajul Bhargava told that the theme of this year's conference is very important in present scenario of the world. Literature and society which were integrally related are being distanced by market and other forces.

The spaces of literary expression are shrinking in the present circumstances as the capital governs everything. General Secretary of the Association Dr. K.S. Kang said that scholars from all over the country are likely to participate in the conference.

The journal of the conference and the books written by the members of the Association will be released in the conference. Dr. Devendra Rankawat , convenor of the organizing committee said that noted poet and activist Dr. Aidan Singh Bhati will be felicitated in the conference. Talking about the theme of the conference Prof. H.S. Chandalia told that writer and society are integrally connected with each other.

No writer can write in isolation and similarly no writer can remain unaffected by the society around.

The socio-political and economic environment of a given time and place molds a writer and his approach to the world. The post globalization world led to a series of changes in literary perceptions and analyses. It created a new world order which is governed by a new set of values and novel aspirations of the states and people. It is a society of creation of wealth as a primary value.

Both at the level of the individual and the state it is being understood as a sign of progress.

The unipolar world has created a world order with the states becoming more and more powerful and the hard earned freedoms of people seem to be shelved in the name of national interests.

Egalitarianism seems to have taken a back seat in the wake of new economic changes and challenges.

In literary sphere post-modernity has become a major phenomenon spreading its wide wings casting their dark shadow over the world menacingly.

The reality is no more real and falsehood is no more false. What glitters is not gold and what irks is not pain.

The truth is hidden behind a mesh of pretensions and propaganda prevails as truth. The media has come forward in a big way to define and present the strains of life.

The concept of Post Truth is a new theoretical premise being used and discussed widely to negotiate between what is and what is projected.

The new media has taken over the traditional print medium. This electronic and digital revolution has created a world of virtual experience which has replaced the real life experiences and reached a point where it seems more real than the real one.

These and other issues will be discussed in the conference.
