

Education is not in the priority of any CM or PM of the country - Dr. Kumar Bhilwara (Moolchand Peswani) Eminent poet Dr. Kumar Vishwas reached Shahpura in the district. He has a close association with Shahpura. His first state service started as an associate professor in the college.

They were also married while living in Shahpura. Dr. Kumar Vishwas, who came to attend the Kavi Sammleen organized by the municipality under the Phuldol Festival, reached the state college and met the old professors and old

Talking in the library of the college, Dr. Kumar Vishwas said that those working in politics should have made efforts to make educational institutions good in the country.

Due to politics, even in 70 years, the country's first 100 universities have no universality in the country. He said that despite his own true Swadeshi and nationalist, he had to send his daughter to study America. He said that due to not having the priority of a single CM and

PM in the country, it is happening that no university can be made worth rating the world.

Not a single Chief Minister has a Ministry of Education and Culture.

He said that God forbid if this happens, if he gets any chance, he will take over the Ministry of Education and Culture.

Describing the time of two and a half years spent in Shahpura as personally enriching for himself, Vishwas Kumar said that during this period there was a lot of time for self-realization, self-sacrifice.

Due to the cutting of Shahpura from Delhi, there was a lot of opportunity to work for literature, many historical poems like Madhyantika and Rupa Rani were prepared here. Ardhagini, which gave life momentum, was found here only, due to which he has become a brand today.

Overall it was a period of self-prosperity. Shahpura owes a lot to my life. Why he was cut off from Delhi, the country's capital, when he came here, but while working in literature, the letters were published in magazines. Referring to the old era of Hindi poems, Kumar Vishwas said that earlier poets had to bear neglect and cynicism but today Hindi poetry has become a brand. Those who work in many other genres are working in the field of Hindi poetry. Upcoming youth is talented. He is hopeful about the future of Hindi poetry. The youth have started writing well with them, but they encourage them and provide a platform. Talking about professor and student relations in colleges, Vishwas Kumar said that earlier the professor used to keep information about all the personal problems and family of his student. Used to guide him on the same basis. He used to be a mentor, but today the situation has changed. Earlier classes also went well. Now politics has become dominant over education, so the affiliation of the professors is also going on towards the MLA for fear of transfer instead of college or student.

Hindustan Zinc celebrates a unique e-Women's Day

Udaipur: Gender Diversity is no more a buzzword in the industry in contemporary times. It is rather a necessity and a well-accepted fact. Several studies have proven that a workplace comprising of a gender diverse and inclusive population tend to be more equitable, innovative and profitable in their operations. This is not just because of the employment of more women that creates an impact, rather the union of complimenting working style of men and women.

In a recent ground-breaking event, the company held a unique e-Women's Day celebration, mobilising over 300 of their women employees through video conferencing. The event was attended by Inspector General of Police (Udaipur) - Ms. Binita Thakur, who herself is an icon for women empowerment. Digitisation is a key focus area for Hindustan Zinc, and Ms. Binita was impressed with how a simple concept of celebrating Women's Day could be digitally integrated to amplify the reach. Through this event, Ms. Binita shared her insights with more than 300 female employees of Hindustan Zinc across their operating areas of Udaipur, Kayad, Agucha, Chanderiya and Dariba in Rajasthan and Pantnagar in Uttarakhand. While women empowerment remained the central theme at this event, issues like women health and safety were also pivotal. Integrating digitisation and safety, the company came up with an application called the V-Safe app, to promote safety among employees. Conceptualised to ensure safety of all employees, the V-Safe application uses state of the art technology and alerts the kin and colleagues of the user of any emergency situation they might be in. Along with this, a safety kit especially for the women employees was also distributed, promoting the company's values of 'Meri Suraksha, Meri Zimmedari'.

Promoting young women leaders acts as an added motivation for the aspiring workforce, for which Mrs. Priya Agarwal Hebber was a great example. Currently the Non-Executive Director of Vedanta Resources, the holding company of Hindustan Zinc, Mrs. Priya shared her insights and visions to drive gender inclusivity at this event, along with inputs from the Executive Committee of Hindustan Zinc.

It is imperative to cultivate gender diversity at workplace which goes beyond equal representation of males and females. Democracy on Sale!

Democracy in India is on sale. Those who are in power and can buy are able to buy not just votes but the elected representatives also. Bahrtiya Janata Party is in power at the center and also in many states. The defeat it suffered in the assembly elections in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Delhi made the chances of their gaining a majority in the upper house in the parliament. There are many goals in the agenda of BJP in this tenure of the government. The chances of their getting this many seats in Lok Sabha in coming elections, if they are fair, are very low. This is why they are in a hurry to execute their agenda. For this objective they are in a spree to buy the MLAs of other political parties. The resignation of twenty two MLAs in Madhya Pradesh and five in Gujarat are primarily to tilt the balance in favour of BJP in the coming Rajya Sabha elections. Though BJP is to blame for the horse trading that is going on, Congress is equally responsible for this fall in the electoral politics of the country. Why do the MLAs of Congress get entrapped in the net of BJP and are driven away in the cars/ buses to the destinations decided by them. The CM of Madhya Pradesh Kamal Nath says that the Congress MLAs have been forcefully detained. But Jyotiraditya Scindia was not detained by the BJP. He willingly joined the ruling party at center to gain his personal goal of a seat in the Rajya Sabha. This proves that perhaps he was asking from Congress a ticket for Rajya Sabha and he might have been denied that. BJP grabbed this opportunity and made his rebellion possible by offering him a seat in the Rajya Sabha. In bargain, they must have demanded the resignation of MLAs of his group which would bring down the Kamalnath government and ensure BJP's winning a larger number of seats in Rajya Sabha. BJP has successfully done this in Goa, Arunachal Pradesh and now in Gujarat.

The governor's role in all these states has also been dubious. It seems that the prestigious institutions of democracy like the judiciary, election commission and the office of governors in the states are failing to exercise the autonomy and independence which is the hall mark of a successful democracy. Contrarily, political parties also seem to have lost all sense of morality and uprightness. In order to gain power they tend to act pretty arbitrarily. This will affect people's faith in the very institution of democracy and people will lose faith in parliamentary democracy. This is a very dangerous sign. It is not in the interest of the people at large because once the faith in democratic institutions is shaken it will be very difficult to regain it. The ruling elite might feel happy that they are able to manage to things as per their will but the truth is such tendencies will shake the faith of people in the very institution of democracy. So, it is high time people, media and the right thinking people raised this issue at all possible fora.
