

What Purpose does United Nations Organization Serve?

Special article on 24th October- UNO Day

The relevance of UNO becomes clear as one types "UNO" in the Google search option. Can you imagine what you get? Here is what follows:

America's number one card game, UNO offers hours of fun. It's easy to learn, always unpredictable and never dull. It can be played with...

This is ironically so true. United Nations Organization has become America's number one card game. It offers hours of fun. Equally true, it is easy to learn-yes, anybody can learn about UNO. It is always unpredictable and never dull. Look at its inability ty and lack of will to intervene in matters where its role is primary. The Google search opens up a game of cards, which can be played with a pack of cards as well as online. The description of the game so likens the description of UNO that it seems as if the details are about United Nations only.

The United Nations is an international organization founded in 1945. It is currently composed of 193 Member States. The mission and work of the United Nations are guided by the purposes and principles contained in its founding Charter. The main organs of UNO are - General Assembly,

Security Council, Economic and Social Council, Trusteeship Council, International Court of Justice, and UN Secretariat. All these organs work together to maintain peace and order in the world. The most important of these organs is the Security Council which has fifteen members of which five are permanent and ten get changed with time. India has been contesting for its permanent place on the Security Council. The Security Council has primary responsibility, under the UN Charter, for the maintenance of international peace and security. It has 15 Members (5 permanent and 10 non-permanent members). Each Member has one vote. Under the Charter, all Member States are obligated to comply with Council decisions. The Security Council takes the lead in determining the existence of a threat to the peace or act of aggression.

It is ironical that after the formation of the UNO the world witnessed a number of wars and short battles across the globe. The UNO did not play a judicious role and more often than not served the interests of the USA. In more than three wars the USA used its military forces to curb socialist revolutions and to topple communist/socialist governments.

In 1950-1953 Korean War took place in which American forces fought to save South Korea from the communist North Korea, 1961 America orchestrated the Bay of Pigs invasion to topple the government of communist leader Fidel Castro in Cuba in which it failed miserably, Vietnam War continued for a long time from 1961 to 1973. It was an attempt of North Vietnam to unite South Vietnam. The American troops intervened to stop this unification but had to withdraw finally in 1973 and then in 1975 the unification took place. This war was fought to stop the expansion of communism. In 1965 president Lyndon Johnson sent marines and troops to quash a leftist uprising; he feared that the Dominican Republic might follow in the footsteps of Cuba and turn communist. In 1982 Lebanon, 1983 Grenada, 1989 Panama, 1991 Gulf War (Kuwait and Iraq), Somalia 1993 American forces attacked these countries to topple the existing governments in these countries. In Grenada Ronald Reagan attacked to overthrow the government which had close ties with Cuba. Battles took place in Haiti 1994, Bosnia 1994-95, 1999 Kosovo, 2001 Afghanistan, 2003-10 Iraq war, 2011 Libya, War with ISIL 2012-19, Syria 2017 in which the world saw American aggression in the name of UN and Peace Keeping Forces. The recent war between Armenia and Azerbaijan is continuing. India also engaged with Pakistan four times and with People's Republic of China once during this period. If analyzed objectively the UN Security Council did not prove very effective in restoring peace.

The functions of different committees of UNO have been taken up by other world agencies like the World Trade Organization, World Bank and International Monetary Fund. The permanent members of the Security Council are the biggest traders of arms and ammunition. How can peace be ensured in the world when one hegemonic power dominates and functions in the name of UN. Today when we observe the UN Day these questions become very relevant.
